Write only one of the following writing tasks. Choose either A or B. Write about 50 words.

A. Read Jay's blog and write your reply. What advice can you give him?

Today was terrible day. One to completely forget! I got to work a little late. Ok, it wasn't the first time, so, of course, my boss, well, I hated that job anyway, but the thing is – what am I going to do now? I'm an intelligent guy (I graduated from college three years ago), but I just don't know what to do now. Come on blogosphere, give me some advice and tell me your plans! Maybe I can get a few ideas from you guys!

B. You have just come back from your holiday. Write a short e-mail telling your relatives about your holiday.

SECTION 4: READING

ACTIVITY 1

Read the article below. Write True (T) or False (F).

An Unusual Commute

Most people commute by bus, or they drive but not Ted Houk, from Maryland. Dr Houk always runs to his internal medicine practice from his home in Lutherville, and back again every day. It's about four miles from there and four miles home, but he runs when it's sunny, when it's raining and even when it's snowing. He runs even if it's hot or cold, or if it's light or dark. He always runs with a big bag in his hand. In the bag there are his clothes, his stethoscope, his phone and about two pounds of fruits and vegetables. Dr Houk eats a lot of fruits and vegetables because he believes fruits and vegetables are good for you and he says that vegetables help with the memory. His full bag weights about ten pounds. For many years Dr. Houk rode his bike to work, but he started to gain weight, so he decided to run instead. When Houk gets to work he uses alcohol to remove the perspiration. But sweat is not really a problem, he says, because "your sweat is clean".

1. Dr. Houk lives in a different town from his workplace. ☐
2. He takes the bus to work if it rains or snows. ☐
3. The bag he carries is empty. ☐
4. Dr. Houk likes to eat fruit and vegetables. ☐
5. The sweat on his body is dangerous. ☐
